

Hilary Haddigan
Chief of Mission Effectiveness, Heifer International

As Chief of Mission Effectiveness, Hilary Haddigan gives executive leadership to Heifer's strategy and performance work globally to build a strong and resilient enterprise that is achieving mission impact at scale. Hilary has led cross-organizational work to establish a dynamic learning system whereby program learning and results inform strategy development and organizational excellence. Hilary has a broad range of responsibilities including Strategy and Organizational Effectiveness; Monitoring, Evaluation, Research and Learning; Strategic Communication; Philanthropy and Heifer's program work in the United States.

Hilary's 18 years of Heifer experience working in many departments gives her a great perspective in her leadership functions. Prior to Heifer, Hilary worked with Christian Aid in the UK, the Volunteer Missionary Movement in Zimbabwe and as a teacher in the northwest of England - her homeland. Hilary holds a Bachelors' in Education from the University of Liverpool and a Master of Science in Development from the School of Oriental and African Studies, London. When the work seems challenging, Hilary maintains perspective through running; she believes that if she can run a marathon – anything is possible.
