

KATE GRANGER

Kate Granger is the Deputy Program Director of Partnering for Innovation, a USAID-funded program that builds partnerships with agribusinesses to help them sell new products and services to smallholder farmers who represent a potential market of more than 500 million customers. Kate has almost 20 years of experience working with farmers and agriculture around the world, from women farmers in the Bolivian highlands to immigrant farmers in New York City to ag tech companies serving small farmers with Partnering for Innovation. Her expertise includes private sector partnership, participatory development, community facilitation, and strategic program management.
